1973-2023

Are you ready for a year of celebrating? We hope so, because we're so ready to start the next 50 years and make some new memories with you.

Visit Hallmark.com/Keepsake50th to learn more about how to join our celebration this year.

Disney Keepsake Ornaments premiered in 1977.

Artists like Tom Best, now retired, often begin with a pencil sketch.

These yarn figures were part of our first ornament offering back in 1973.

Rocking horses are a past and present favorite.

CELEBRATING 50 YEARS OF KEEPSAKE ORNAMENTS

Grounded in the memories and traditions you helped us create, we look forward to a future filled with new possibilities.

It all started with a what-if moment. What if we could create ornaments that would bring people together around their Christmas trees every single year, connecting them with love, laughter and shared memories?

In 1973, we launched our what-if idea with the first collection of what would soon become Keepsake Ornaments.

Now, as we celebrate 50 years of creating Keepsake Ornaments, we're thinking about all the memories we've made along the way.

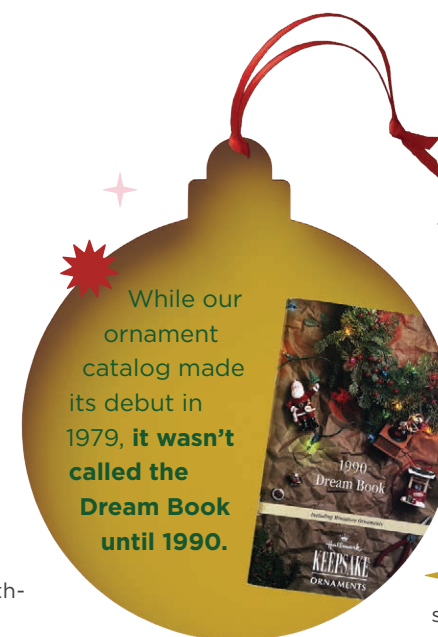

All the traditions you've shared with us. And all the stories that have inspired us, year after year.

Those stories and traditions remind us that even with all the changes of the past half century, we can still count on what we love most about the holiday season: the anticipation, the storytelling, the memory-making, the decorating, the everything-that-has-to-do-with-Christmas-ing.

And suddenly, Christmas past doesn't feel so different from Christmas present. It's always been about being with the people you love. Getting wrapped up in hugs and laughter and conversation. Giving freely, sharing generously and caring deeply.

Those are the things we hold tight to as we begin our next 50 years.

While our ornament catalog made its debut in 1979, it wasn't called the Dream Book until 1990.

They define the holidays we know and ground us in tradition.

But we're also looking forward to the holiday seasons we don't know yet. What new traditions will you begin? What new wonders are out there just waiting to be created by our artists? What new stories will your families be telling?

★ We love asking questions that help us stay open to new ways of celebrating and capturing memories around the tree. To all the possibilities that Christmas future has in store. To all the Keepsake Ornaments we've yet to imagine.

Fifty years from now, we hope future generations will be gathered around some form of this Dream Book, remembering the stories you've told. Passing those stories down. And holding tight to all the things that will always make Christmas...Christmas.

LET'S START WITH SOMETHING SPECIAL

That's just what our Keepsake artists intended when they created these special ornaments to remember our first 50 years.

They started by bringing some past favorites to life in beautiful new ways. Take a close look at The Artist at Work to see Santa's workbench filled with Keepsake Ornaments from Christmases past. Every single artist in the Keepsake Studio contributed to this masterpiece!

On the right, you'll find series favorites that have been repainted especially for this anniversary. We love these memories, and we hope you do, too.

CUTE AS A BUTTON

When Keepsake Artist Nina Aubé was little, so were her pets. Growing up in a small apartment in Chicago, she enjoyed creating clothing, furniture and vehicles for all her little critters, using everyday objects like candy boxes, spools—and buttons!

“Tiny pets are dear to my heart. I had a lot of hamsters growing up, and I’ve always found their perky, cuddly faces and gentle dispositions to be especially adorable. For this series, you’ll see these happy little hamsters using buttons of all shapes and sizes in creative and festive ways to celebrate the season!”

FANCIFUL FRIENDS

Keepsake Artist Kristina Gaughran has been a lifelong fan of mermaids.

"I've wanted to design a mermaid ornament for a long time, so I'm really excited about creating this series. I'm planning different ethnicities with beautiful tails inspired by real fish. This year's was inspired by the mandarin fish. There are so many possibilities with all the amazing, colorful fish in the sea, and I hope to bring something unique and playful to each of these fanciful friends."

Wondering what next year's mermaid will be? Kris says, "I'll only hint that it includes my favorite color. And I really hope you love them as much as I love working on them!"

A SNOWTOP LODGE CHRISTMAS CONCERT

Since 2005, Keepsake Artist Joanne Wright has been bringing smiles to snow people lovers with her popular Snowtop Lodge series. This year, familiar series favorites have gathered to bring you a tabletop Christmas concert, complete with synchronized light show.

"It was so exciting to bring my characters to life," Joanne says. "We worked carefully to choose carols to perfectly match each one. When you add a character to the stage, that snow person sings while the tree lights up with a color-themed light show created to perfectly fit its personality.

"Oh, and you might notice a new character in the group. The snow person with the red stocking is a sneak peek of the series ornament that will come out in 2024. That ornament will be porcelain to match the rest of the series, and I can't wait for you to meet her!"

Kids' Favorites

Hold on to their growing-up years with ornaments that turn today's favorites into forever memories.

HALLMARK CELEBRATES 100 YEARS OF DISNEY

We are delighted to congratulate The Walt Disney Company on its first 100 years! To honor Disney 100 Years of Wonder, our Keepsake Ornament artists have created a collection of 100th anniversary ornaments featuring beloved Disney characters. Hallmark and Disney share a proud history dating back to 1931, when the first Disney character appeared on a Hallmark greeting card. And in 1977, the first Disney characters showed up on Keepsake Ornaments. Who were they? Mickey Mouse and friends, of course! Our two company founders, J.C. Hall and Walt Disney, enjoyed a strong business partnership and genuine friendship for many years, and we honor that today with our ongoing partnership. We think our founders would be proud.

Disney Haunted Mansion

A GHOULISH DELIGHT

The ghostly, ghastly Disney Parks Haunted Mansion has arrived in Keepsake form! Relive memorable moments from your trip through the eerie estate with this series featuring actual dialogue and music from the attraction.

Keepsake Studio Art Director Charles Young calls this collection a “true team effort, with the combined talent of sculptors, an editor and engineers, as well as collaboration with our partners at Disney.”

And this spirited three-year series is just getting started. Charles says, “These are the first ornaments in a collection that will take fans through favorite moments from the Haunted Mansion attraction, so stay tuned to see what supernatural moments we bring to life next.”

Color-changing lights set a spooky mood.

FOR THE LOVE OF TRUCKS

Keepsake Artist Alex So’s passion for vintage trucks began with a college research project.

“The 1954 Ford Mercury M-100 was the first truck that caught my eye. Its design was unique, with a brand-specific grill that really stood out, and I fell in love with it. So for me, it’s exciting to create these trucks in miniature scale, while preserving as many details as possible to capture their beauty. This series is a celebration of everyone who loves their pickup trucks.”

So what’s coming next? Alex will only say, “You can look forward to another exquisite, iconic miniature truck!”

A MESSAGE OF THANKS FROM THE KEEPSAKE STUDIO

As we look back on 50 years of Keepsake Ornaments, we're filled with an overwhelming sense of gratitude. We're grateful for the vision of those who first asked, "What if...?"

We're grateful for the artists who created those first ornaments back in 1973. The years since have brought a lot of change. But one thing remains constant—the love we share with you for the holidays, along with all the traditions and memories they bring. Which is why we're most grateful for you. You're at the heart of everything we create.

So we want to thank you for being the best part of our memories over the past 50 years. And we invite you to join us for the next 50, because we can't wait to share it with you. Merry Christmas, friends.

JOIN THE 2023 KEEPSAKE ORNAMENT CLUB
